Hey Knowit!

Driven by passion for marketing, technology, and design, combined with strengths, like patience, curiosity, efficiency, and creativity, I see existing and upcoming obstacles, as an opportunity to learn, grow and evolve.

I appreciate working in teams and to communicate to make progress and get new perspectives. From being in a position where I had the opportunity to have an over view of the whole project and its stakeholders, I developed a desire to earn greater understanding of backend code. In my current project we are using Python, which I now have a better understanding of. I get to be more logical and to solve problems to make processes smoother, safer and to think of solutions to be used longterm.

I have spent the majority of the past 7 years abroad, and speak and write fluent Swedish and English.

I love a challenge, and am looking for a new adventure, being able to solve problems, being strategic, creative, and innovative.

I hope to hear from you in the near future,
so that we can work, learn and grow together!

WORK EXPERIANE

“Scrum Master - Project Manager”

WorkPrecision Software

Gothenburg, Sweden (Hybrid)

23 May 2022 – On going

React, TypeScript, Python, DigitalOcean, Figma, Jira, Bitbucket

After completing my internship at WorkPrecision I continued as a project manager and developer. My main tasks is to have a daily meeting where progress and issues are brought up. My mission is to keep and maintain a productive level of discussion and to lead the team towards the product owners wishes. I have to make sure that the right and more prioritized tasks are handled in the right order. Every week I have a meeting with the owner to compare results with requirements and to discuss upcoming features and their business value. I have to send daily emails and follow up on invoices and other admin work, as well as programming.

This job has given me a lot of good experiances in computer science, enhanced my communication skills and “to get things done” in a smooth and productive mannor.

INTERSHIPS - Web Development within E-Commerce

WorkPrecision – Gothenburg Hybrid

6 April – 20 May 2022 (7 weeks)

React, TypeScript, Python, Django Rest, Figma (UX design tool)

At this internship I got the Team Leader role (Scrum Master). I am in charge of the communication, planning, execution, and administration of processes within the project. My major task as a junior developer and team leader is to make sure that everyone in the team has the resources they need and to make sure that the team is on point with what needs to be done. This role includes major responsibility to communicate the product owner's requests and to communicate this in a proper manner to the appropriate person. Besides making sure we are aiming in the right direction and prioritizing the right tasks, I have also been focusing on the frontend (what you see on the screen while visiting the website or app) to make sure it is as user-friendly as possible.

The design, structure and user experiance on the landing page has been my major tasks as a frontend developer.

Swedish Cloud Solutions – Remotely

7 February – 5 April 2022 (8 weeks)

WordPress, PHP, Sequel Ace Database, SEO, Marketing of the landing page via LinkedIn integrations

During this internship, the stack was quite easy since we worked with WordPress, which is a bit easier to get into than other stacks. I and my team made a website that the entrepreneur that we worked for, could easily continue to update, without any coding skills. To work with an entrepreneur was interesting and a bit challenging, as he changed requirements continuously. It was important to be able to adapt and communicate obstacles that came up during the project to meet deadlines.

I did marketing through LinkedIn and used the entrepreneurs' contacts to conduct weekly, in-depth emails that redirected his email contacts, to the website and blog that we build for him, for more information about his product, called VisPlan.

JobTip – Gothenburg

4 October – 10 December 2021 (12 weeks)

Vue, Laravel, Sequel Ace Database, WordPress, TailWind CSS (Design framework)

I was practicing a position as a full-stack developer, where I made a booking system for sales appointments. I was working with the Norwegian team, which required teamwork at a new level. I had to take initiative to speak and deliver on their expectations without face-to-face interactions.

The communication here was key to being time-efficient and reaching goals.

I had to learn new design tools, at the same time as I had critical deadlines to meet. This experience gave me real-life challenges and was very exciting since it was the first time within coding that I had to make sure everything was working properly and I had clients that were depending on me delivering.

... OTHER WORK EXPERIANES

Discovery+ “Customer Service”

Barcelona, Spain

1 juli 2022 – 1 september 2022

When customer needed guidance or help I advised and informed customers by email.

I was working the evening shift while also studying. The job was rewarding and the days went fast and where filled with fun activities that the managers and regular workers took the initiative to plan, I liked being able to interact with customers and to be able to find solutions to their issues.

I had to leave, after the conditions changed regarding distance work, at my second job in Sweden.

TikTok “Content Moderator”

Barcelona, Spain (Remotely)

1 July – 1 September 2021

After 3 weeks of successful training, I was moderating ads, labeling content, and matching landing pages on TikTok for the Swedish and British markets. The conditions and labels were constantly updated, which meant that I had to be very switched on for changes and updates to the requirement. We had an internal chat and continuous training to be on top of the changing conditions and labels. In this job, it was important to have attention to detail and to be able to adapt and learn quickly, and at the same time have high-quality communication skills to be able to communicate difficulties with co-workers remotely. I worked full time from 8 am to 5 pm on a rotating schedule that included weekends.

Bondi Icebergs “Assistant Event Manager”

Sydney Australia

August 2017- February 2020

After working as a bartender for some time I was offered a position as an Assistant Event Manager, where the tasks were to receive bookings, present different packages, and organize events for companies and groups. The venue was very popular and has a high reputation, which was reflected in the management team. The communication and interpretation of the customer's needs were vital to being able to deliver and meet the customer's demands. I was working part-time while studying for my bachelor of business and was able to apply my marketing skills in my tasks at Bondi Icebergs.

The Winery “Waitress”

Sydney, Australia

2015-2017

I worked as a section waitress at The Winery for most of my time as a student in Australia. My tasks as a section waitress were not only to provide customers with a great experience, but I also had to promote and up-sell food and drinks. It was not enough to only take orders, as the management expected us to meet sales targets. We had training and also got rated after how much we sold of the weekly specials. The job at the winery gave me extensive knowledge of wine and food, and the combinations of these that I could pass on to the customers, to make the customer experience as great as possible. I also learned how to use the English language properly in a sales environment and in a professional manner.

Massimo Dutti “Sales representant”

Göteborg Sweden

2013

While working at Massimo Dutti I had to upsell and present customers with additional items to maximize sales, to meet daily targets. I was working full-time for almost 1 year. The job was not only to sell but to make sure that the customer was generally satisfied with what they bought, We kept records of returns that were deducted from the sales. We had encouraging training in up-selling techniques and team building courses.

Göteborgs-Posten GP "Advertiser"

Gothenburg Sweden

2012-2013

GP is the biggest newspaper with the widest coverage in the western parts of Sweden.

I received orders of ads from private customers by phone and e-mail that I, later on made a first draft of, depending on the kind of ad. Some ads are more sensitive and had to go through different layers of checks before getting posted in the newspaper.

Philip Morris “Field Promoter and Sales Representative”

Gothenburg 2012

I was presenting and selling products from Philip Morris in venues and at events. This was a hard industry to work in, since selling tobacco in Sweden is very restricted and controlled. There is also a lot of negative associations, which means that we had to deal with criticism face to face, and had to make sure that the interactions ended up with a positive feeling. We were not able to actively sell the products, but we're presenting new products and worked as a "face" for the company and products. It was very important to be well-spoken and to be able to communicate in a proper manner to make negative encounters turn into positive ones.
